Exhibition & Sponsorship Program

The International Conference on UV LED Technologies & Applications – ICULTA 2023 will be held as an in-person event in Berlin, Germany, from April 23rd to 26th, 2023. It is a forum for the UV LED community to exchange ideas and results on cutting-edge topics. Experts from science and industry come together to discuss the latest trends, innovations and the wide range of applications of UV LEDs.

The conference gets its unique character from covering the whole value chain: It highlights the state-of-the-art of UV LED technology, integration of UV LEDs into modules and systems as well as their application in industry and research. Opportunities and challenges with respect to applications in water, air, and surface disinfection are discussed as well as emerging applications in the areas of medicine, hygiene, life sciences, curing, sensing, horticulture, analytics, and other fields.

The accompanying exhibition provides an excellent platform for the presentation of your latest developments, innovations, and services to highlight your skills, and expand your network. The conference will feature international oral and poster presentations and a number of networking breaks to be held in the exhibit area.
